TOWN MANAGER RESIGNS
Judson accepts
Franklin County
development post

Town Manager William Judson is resigning to take the position of economic development officer for Franklin County. His resignation is effective Nov. 16 and he takes up his new duties at the county courthouse in Farmington Nov. 19. [Mr. Judson presented his letter of resignation to the Board of Selectmen over the weekend. Board Chairman Arlan Jodrey told the board, Monday night, "I've got some bad news for you." He then read Mr. Judson's letter, commenting, "It's hard for me to read it."

In his letter to the board, Mr. Judson said the move was "for personal growth and expanded professional development." He said, "The many kindnesses extended to me and to my family by the people of Bethel will be cherished always."

The board met again last night to discuss how to go about finding the right person to become the new town manager. They were expected to approve an ad to run in statewide papers. When Mr. Judson applied for the position, it was through seeing an ad in the Portland paper.

He came to Bethel in March 1982 and administered a municipal budget of $470,000. As he leaves, the budget stands at $505,000. And he warns, there will be pressures for it to go considerably higher.

"The growth at Newry (associated with the development at Sunday River) will likely increase the pressure for services on Bethel," he said in an interview this week.

While the additional people moving into condominiums at Sunday River will require additional fire and ambulance protection from Bethel, the taxes they pay on their condos will go to Newry.

He also pointed out that the growth in Bethel's tax base is continued on Page Five

TELSTAR & GOULD STUDENTS BALLOT IN MOCK ELECTION

It's Reagan by a landslide, according to voters at Telstar Regional High School. Under the direction of Rod Abbott's public issues classes, Telstar students and staff voted Tuesday in a mock election and overwhelmingly re-elected Ronald Reagan as President of the United States. The vote was 252 for Reagan and Bush to 69 for Mondale and Ferraro.

At Gould Academy, a mock election was held last week. Reagan won that one as well, but by a narrower margin, 81 to 81. At Gould, the faculty supported Mondale—continued on Page Ten

District 49 contest
winding down to
Tuesday decision

Both candidates for the District 49 legislative seat have been running themselves increasingly ragged, travelling between Bethel and Rangeley in their final bids to line up votes for next Tuesday's election. Not that they've bypassed the smaller towns between here and the northern part of the district, but both know where the voters are: Bethel, as of earlier this week, had 1,725 registered voters, according to Town Clerk Morton Brown; Rangeley had just over 1,000, according to Town Clerk Audrey Hodge.

Between the two towns, there are about 51% of the registered voters in the district, which has a total of about 5,500 registered voters. Most of them, 38%, are enrolled Republicans. Only 28% are enrolled Democrats. That should be good news for Al Barth, GOP hopeful, and bad news for Jeff Mills, the Democrats' standard bearer.

But Cathy Newell, the local Democratic Party coordinator says the percentages don't mean much. "Jeff took Andover by two-to-one last time (in last year's special election), and it's a Republican stronghold."

Andover is no longer in the redrawn district, while Rangeley, Lowell and Waterford are—all of which are strongly Republican.

Rangeley, according to its town clerk, has 409 enrolled Republicans versus 190 enrolled Democrats. But there are also 402 people in Rangeley who have indicated no party preference. Throughout the district 34% of those who

Albany HUNT'S CORNER AND VICINITY

Kathy Bennett, Corres.

The month of October is coming to a close. We certainly have been lucky to have such beautiful weather, but I'm sure it is soon to come to an end.

Barbara and Howard Inman and friends attended the dance at the VFW Hall in Harrison on Saturday night.

Recent callers at the Wardwell Farm have been Verma Robinson, Herman Gatchell, Clara Whitman and Norman Rust.

The following people have been recent visitors at the home of Hugh and Edith Stearns: Howard and Barb Inman, Millie Pope, Ed Butters and Nita Inman, Mike and June Inman and children, Janice Morrill, Deedee and Cyca and Amanda, Norm and Betty Rust, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Waterhouse, Kathy Bennett, Jay Philbrook, Beth Hartford, Ava Bumrus, and Hulda Stevens.

Margaret Barton called on Samal Seavey in Conway on Saturday.

Sunday, Margaret and Yvette Barton drove to Milford to pick up Roger Barton's 230 lb., 10-point buck, that he shot on the first day.

It has been a very busy week here at K-D's Acres. Dick took a week's vacation and put down a new floor in our kitchen.

Friday night supper guests were Elton and Chris Cole and girls, Megan and Maire. Megan Cole spent the weekend with us.

Other callers during the week were Margaret and Franklin Bartlett, Jeff Barkin, Yvette Barkin, Russ Nutting and Annie Nutting, Norm Rust, and Scott Dyer.

Monday, Margaret and I picked up David and Scott Dyer in Rumford after they had taken their physicals for the Air Force in Portland that day.

Sunday evening we called on Annie Nutting in Bethel and then went on to Bryant Pond to visit my family, Eve B. Twitchell, Kay Billings, Dot Hooper and Chris and Elton Cole and girls.

We celebrated Dan Bennett's 15th birthday with cake, ice cream and apple pies. Saturday night Dan visited Rod White.

Sarah Andrews spent Sunday at Range Pond in Poland. One day last week Sarah had dinner with Blanche Button then they called on Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Kimball. Little Ray Andrews spent the day Saturday with his grandmother, Sarah Andrews.

Locke Mills

Mrs. John Mills, Corres.

The Greenwood Historical Society will be meeting this month back in the society building on Main Street. The meeting will be Nov. 7 at 7:30 p.m. Mellen Kimball will be giving a talk on radial-sawed clapboards.

The fire department will meet Tuesday, Nov. 6, at the Fire Station, 7 p.m.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary met last Tuesday at the fire station with Caroee Roberts, Flossie Seames, Denise Swan, May Stone, Lorraine Mills, Sally McMillen, Cheryl Young and Eli, Barbara Dunham, Charlotte Kimball, Joanne Cole, and Shirley Seames present. It was voted to donate a sum of money to the firemen for equipment. The Christmas craft fair will be held Dec. 1 at the town hall. A menu was discussed to be served during the noon hour. A date was suggested for consideration by the firemen at their next meeting for the oyster stew supper. The auxiliary will provide salads, casseroles and desserts.

Cub Scout Pack #540 held their Halloween party Monday evening at the American Legion Hall. Prizes were awarded to Chris Kenyon for the scariest costume and Vincent Roberts for the funniest costume. Judges were Bob Coolidge and Cubby Swan. Ben Tyler won the Jack-O-Lantern contest. Denise Swan, Amita Packard and Linda Eastman were judges. Refreshments of cider, popcorn balls, and cookies were served. A big thank you to all the judges for their time and to those who donated the refreshments. Also thanks to Ruel Swain and Jim Everett of Bethel for the pumpkins and to Allen and Diane Howe for their great haunted house.

SIX REASONS to vote for MARY ANNE SMITH

JOB

Smith will work to bring jobs to this area. She is a Region II Vocational School Director.

ECONOMY

Smith will work to bring industry to this area and improve the climate for small businesses. She is an attorney and has opened a new office complex in Norway. Smith supports the farm industry through 4-H and legal work for the Oxford City Fair Assoc.

HEALTH CARE

Smith will work to keep health care affordable. She is past president of the Stephens Hospital Auxiliary and supports local control of health care. She provides free legal guidance as a panel member on the "I Can Cope" cancer support group.

SOCIAL CONCERN

Smith helped found Tri-County Mental Health, is a guardian for abused children and she and her husband have cared for the disadvantaged in their home. She is on the People's Regional Opportunity Board.

EDUCATION

Smith supports more family involvement in the educational system.

TAXES

Smith believes we must balance our budget by reducing expenses, not raising taxes.

Mary Anne Smith is an attorney and businesswoman in Norway. She lives in Harrison with her husband, orthopedic surgeon Dr. Charles Smith. They have three children: Barbara, 18; Ian, 20; and Philip, 24. Mary Anne was born and raised in Bethel (Mary Anne Myers). She is a graduate of Gould Academy, Wheaton College (Mass.) and University of San Francisco Law School. Besides her law practice and business affiliations, she is active in the Bolster Mills Fire Assoc., the Oxford County Fair Assoc., the People's Regional Opportunity Board, and is a corporator of Maine Savings Bank and Stephens Memorial Hospital.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR...

To the Editor:

Al Barth is well known throughout Oxford County for his leadership ability, dependability, knowledge of issues, and concern for the needs of area citizens. He has demonstrated outstanding organizational skills in every community group with which he has been associated. Al's positive, outgoing personality gives him the ability to motivate others to work toward common goals. I believe that we the citizens of District 49 need Al's dedication and ability in the State Legislature, and I urge you to join me in voting for Al Barth on Tuesday, Nov. 6.

Sincerely,

Dear Voter:

During the last nine months you have graciously opened your door to me, listened to what I have had to say, and been very enthusiastic about my campaign for election to the Maine Legislature, District 49.

Thank you for your interest, for your views on state government and most of all for your friendly smiles. You people make all the long hours and many thousands of miles all worth it.

Please vote on Tuesday, Nov. 6.

Sincerely,
Al Barth,
Candidate for State
Representative, District 49

To the Editor:

We all know times have changed in the last 10 years. Personal, social and government issues have become more complex. At times it seems we must spend hours of study to comprehend one issue.

This complexity is something we must bear in mind on election day. We need representation that will understand the complexity and far-reaching effects of the legislation that will be dealt with during the next two years.

We need look no farther back than the recent teachers' salary bonus. Few of us would disagree that we must reward those teachers who perform their job well. We want to keep them in the teaching profession to benefit all our children. But what sort of legislation would pass such a bonus bill with no provision for funding the $2,000 bonus?

The Democrat Legislature passed this bill. It has left the tax payers of Maine with a multi-million dollar bill to pay. Maine is millions of dollars in debt.

The competence of any elected official who would approve such a bill should be questioned. If a politician does not understand that it is necessary to provide the money to pay for programs, then he/she should not hold the office.

It is only basic competence to realize money is necessary to pay bills. What about legislation dealing with budgets, the economy, or environmental issues? Dealing with issues such as these requires thoughtful intelligent legislators.

District 15 is fortunate to have a very highly qualified Senatorial candidate, an attorney, businesswoman and former teacher is running for this office.

Smith believes Maine must operate on a balanced budget. The budget will be balanced not by raising taxes but by reducing expenses. Smith will work to bring more jobs to this area. This is not an empty promise. Smith plans to put this into action by attracting small businesses with good wage scales to our area.

Under the leadership of the Democrats Maine's attractiveness for small businesses dropped from 45th to 47th across the nation (INC. magazine). Smith will work to change that.

The health of Maine's economy is vital to all of us. Vote Smith for Senate in District 15—she'll improve our economy and job opportunities. Mary Anne Smith has the knowledge, skills, and abilities to understand how to make a difference.

Sincerely,
Milton Mills

To the Editor:

In a recent letter to the editor, Al Barth made some statements that I would like to dispute. He refers to Maine's ranking in a recent Inc. Magazine report. This report was meaningless and incorrect. Alexander Grant & Co., a prestigious Chicago accounting firm, ranked Florida No. 1 and then ranked them 25th. Second case in point is that Inc. ranked Connecticut No. 1 and Alexander Grant ranked them 35. These huge variations completely undermines the credibility of either study.

He further stated that Lewiston's Bond rating was lowered because of Maine's economic climate which is not true. I have called Moody's Investors and they have completely denied that Maine's economic climate was a factor and claim to have been misquoted. Lewiston's city manager later corrected the city's statement and apologized to the State.

Maine's credit rating was raised two years ago and is the highest rated State in New England and most of the east. Maine is the only State to have its rating increased, east of the Rockies, in the past four years.

In closing, I want you to know that Representative Jeff Mills, in the short time that he has been in the House of Representatives has made an excellent impression on me and all of those who work with him. He is one of the top five best young freshman legislators. I hope that the voters of District 49 will send him back to Augusta to continue his energetic and outstanding work.

Sincerely,
Samuel Shapiro
Treasurer of Maine

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the voters of District 49 for welcoming me as I have campaigned door-to-door this fall. The ideas and concerns you have shared with me on topics ranging from transportation to Workers Compensation, from education to senior citizen services, from tourism promotion to tax relief, will form my agenda for the coming term if you choose to re-elect me.

In response to the campaign rhetoric which seeks to blame all the problems of the past on a single party, it would seem only fair to remember that during the past one-hundred years the Democratic party has controlled the legislature for only two of those years and that it has taken both Republican and Democratic support to pass virtually every bill. No matter who is elected, they will have to work with members of both parties and thus I prefer to look at problems which confront us today and work together toward solving them.

My job as State Representative is to effectively represent you in the legislature by voting in your interest and by assisting you in dealing with state government. I love my work and I ask for your support in continuing the job I began when I was elected last fall. I will work to keep government off your back but on your side, and I respectfully ask for your vote on Election Day, Nov. 6.

Sincerely,
Jeff Mills
State Representative

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my satisfaction that we have two very capable incumbents seeking re-election this fall.

Jeff Mills is a very intelligent and hard-working person. He was raised and educated in this area and his background is in the forest industry which is the economic base of this area. I would point out that much important legislation about the wood industry is coming up this session, and I know that Jeff Mills is very concerned about what constituents think. Last year when a bill came up about the dairy industry Jeff immediately called me to find out how it would affect the dairy farmers in this area.

The health of Maine's economy is vital to all of us. Vote Smith for Senate in District 15—she'll improve our economy and job opportunities. Mary Anne Smith has the knowledge, skills, and abilities to understand how to make a difference.

Sincerely,
Milton Mills

With the bill two years ago I became aware of the fact that when things get going down there in Augusta, a legislator must be able to put in at least 60 hours a week to do an effective job for his district. I hope you will join me in voting for Jeff Mills and Ed Erwin on Tuesday.

Sincerely,
Tim Carter

flat. "The increase in the tax base is not keeping pace with inflation," he warned, and the results will be either higher taxes or reduced services, unless other sources of funding are tapped.

He suggested the town should try to obtain state and federal grants to supplement property taxes.

But before too much time is spent worrying about money,

"Bethel needs to figure out where it wants to be five years from now and figure out how it wants to get there," the outgoing town manager said. Local people need to plan where the increased number of visitors in town will do their shopping, he suggested. Increased commercial establishments in town could broaden the tax base enough to pay for the increased services he envisions will be demanded, he said.

Mr. Judson is proud of the fact that he has kept a tight grip on the budgetary reins during his 2½ years in office here. He points out that the municipal expenditures last year were up only $23,000 over what they were when he took over, despite increased services. He said that management changes, such as better recording-keep on vehicle maintenance, led to savings because expenditures were able to be forecast more accurately.

Among other accomplishments

he feels he has made while here,

Mr. Judson noted the following:

pushing through plans for the expanded airport; successfully negotiating a cable TV contract; speeding up the collection of taxes by collecting twice yearly; changing the fiscal year to match the fiscal year used by state and federal governments.

"I guess we didn't accomplish everything we set out to do,"

commented the town manager,

"but we had a pretty good track record."

The position of town manager in Bethel was Mr. Judson's first job after retiring from 20 years in the Navy. He had enlisted as a seaman and retired as a lieutenant commander. Along the way, he earned an MA in public administration from Golden Gate

University. His BA is from Rutgers.

His new position as Franklin

And that's why Al Barth is not resting on the strong Republican majority. "The independents are obviously the key to the election," continues to visit Rangeley and other Republican strongholds, to convince independents to vote for said Mr. Barth. And that's why he him—and to convince committed Republicans to go to the polls. If Republicans keep hearing that Reagan, and Cohen and Snowe are shoo-ins, they may stay home," worried the local GOP candidate.

For the same reason, Democrat

KEEN-BEDARD ENGAGEMENT

Rebecca Keen of Bryant Pond is pleased to announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Leslie Ann, to Paul Bedard of Norway. Mr. Bedard is the son of Pete Bedard of Norway.

Miss Keen is a 1984 graduate of Oxford Christian Academy and is employed at Paris Manufacturing Co.

Mr. Bedard attended Oxford Hills High School and is employed at Paris Manufacturing Co. A November wedding is planned.

Jeff Mills is not resting on his probable popularity among voters in Gilead, Byron, Upton and Avon, all of which have Democratic majorities among registered voters.

Additionally, Mills has to worry about voters who will vote for Reagan and Bush and then, if the supposed landslide for the President develops, vote for all the Republican candidates. "Last year I was the only issue on the ballot," said Mr. Mills, "except the moose (referendum). This time, you can't tell how many people will vote a straight (Republican) ticket."

Bethel looms large in the campaign of both candidates. With 32% of the electorate, a win in Bethel would give a candidate a big boost towards an overall win.

While a Bethel victory would not guarantee a win overall, a win in Bethel or Rangeley is a must if a candidate is going to be elected. "A candidate would have to carry one of them," noted Mr. Barth.

And Mr. Mills said, "Someone could take every town of the district (except Rangeley and Bethel) and still lose the district."

Bethel's 1,726 registered voters are split almost equally three ways. There are 610 Republicans, 517 Democrats, and 599 independents, according to the town clerk.

Despite the GOP majority, "Bethel has always been marginal (in the GOP column)," noted Barth campaign manager Stan Howe.

As the campaign accelerates to its conclusion, both candidates are mainly trying to meet as many people as possible. Rep. Mills enjoys a slight advantage in this regard, as his current district (District 63) still encompasses half of the area in which he defeated Barbara D. Brown with 63% last year.

But campaign manager Newell downplays this advantage. "If it was the old district, he'd be a shoo-in. The new towns make it a difficult race. It's not the same as being an incumbent in your own district," she said.

Nevertheless, he is running on his record of one year in the Legislature. "I think I've done quite well for the time I've been in," he said. "I've gotten money returned to the towns and I've been around the district, going to the town meetings."

Mr. Barth considers that not very much of a record, nor very much experience. "There's an issue of experience. Even though he's served part of a term, because of what I've down, I have vastly more experience," said Mr. Barth.

"I wouldn't tend to be at the beck and call of others. I'd be more independent. I've been here (in Bethel) for 25 years, been around a lot and done a lot."

The incumbent entered politics directly out of college (UMO), going to work in the secretary of state's office. He soon thereafter ran and won, the unexpected term of Karen Brown in District 63. He said he was planning to run for that seat the following year (this year) anyway.

But aside from picking on what he views as the incumbent's immaturity, Mr. Barth finds little that particular separates him from Mr. Mills. This point is acknowledged by the latter. "We seem to agree on everything," Mr. Mills said.

Mr. Barth likes to make the point that the big issue between the two is that he is pro-business and the Breman administration—and, by extension, Rep. Mills—is not.

"I think the attitude in Augusta should be one to improve the business climate in Maine," Mr. Barth argued. "They have no idea to reduce the cost of doing business (by amending workers' comp) or promote tourism. If we can do that, we'll develop more jobs and have more people paying into the system."

As for his opponent, "He's supportive of them (in Augusta) and I would fight against them. I don't see much change unless the Republicans can gain control of the Legislature. If I can at least slow down things and be of service to people here in this district, I will have done something for them."

Mr. Mills says his opponent is trying to blame his party for things they didn't do. "The idea of trying to blame the Democrats, who have only been in power for two years out of the last 100, is unfair."

On the question of workers' comp, Mr. Mills admits the costs associated with it, but says it was the Republicans who first enacted it. He is all for getting rid of the irregularities. "My father is in the logging business and I know something has to be done."

Mr. Mills defends his vote in favor of increasing the minimum

Greenwood City

— Mrs. Collete Morgan, Corres. —

"The days are growing shorter and the nights are cool and sweet. With a harvest moon that's shining just to make a dream complete; Though melancholy feeling seems to steal into your heart, Nature loves and laughs in autumn And is happy from the start."

It was a hazy kind of morning, the sun not as brilliant as usual but cleared by noon. This seemed to be the last chance I'd have to take my fall trip on the Sanborn River before my boat was put away for the winter.

Dark clouds fled before the freshening gusts of wind. Waves sparkled in the sun which poured down and gave zest to my journey down pond.

I turned into the mouth of the river where golden leaves had swept down, I watched others as they zig-zagged to the water and floated away. In a few minutes hills and forest cut off the sun and laid shade over the water.

I moved on and looked up to see a squirrel flattened on a limb in a patch of sun, his plumed tail waving, then he headed for the deep forest on a high dark road of branches. I stooped to enjoy the scene and to enjoy the odor of the pines. I discovered a large bees' nest on a limb about six feet from the ground. All the twigs in the bushes stood like scratches of a pen, and a blue jay settled like a blot of ink on one, I sat in silence drinking in the solitude and peace of the place. The blue of the water was cracked by ripples and the dark green forest was still touched by brilliant yellow and a bit of red as far as eye could see.

Every Sanborn ride has its shining moments that persist in memory when all else is dimly recalled.

I heard a sound and looked; a lone robin crossed the river and nestled on a low branch to talk to me.

The "doughnut tree" came to mind and I looked for it. It was gone or I missed it.

I pushed around a bend into quietness, like a kitten asleep, waiting for some one to awaken me.

Beyond this, there was a cut-over area and on the bank of the stream a semicircle of hooded stumps. All were dressed in green ferns and moss. The largest was a lone "queen" standing with a crowd of red and green, while all the others guarded her. The waters were in diamonds and sang a special song. I became more relaxed, willing to let time simply slip away.

I could see where the beavers had been at work getting their house-wood, some of which floated in the water.

I turned back from here and stopped once more to listen to the clash of leaves when the breath of breeze stirred among the branches. I could hear distinctly the fine sifting sound of dropping needles from the evergreens.

A sound of uncertain origin provided a riddle which I didn't solve.

Now I faced Noyes Mountain and could clearly see where the leaves had been whipped from the trees, strewn to the ground, like slow drops of colored rain. The feathery poplar leaves still floated over the valley like flocks of golden birds.

Home again I had thoughts of intangible things; a wealth that some would never find; holding not tags of dollars and cents but security and freedom.

Fay Holt was in Boston again on Tuesday for eye treatment. She is some better. Her son, Robert, and her husband went with her.

It was just beginning to get light at 6:30 last Thursday when looking out back of the barn, I saw the legs and bottom part of a moose's body as it trotted across the field a scant 350 ft. from the buildings. The part I could see was outlined against the frosty grass of the field but the top blended in with the dark woods beyond the brook—a ghostly sight.

— Miss Amy Hanscom, Corres. —

Amy and Roger Hanscom were in Lewiston Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Glover, Hollis, called on Amy and Roger Hanscom Saturday P.M.

The title of Pastor Hanscom's message Sunday morning was "Gifts of God, Charity," with Responsive Reading from St. John 15: 1-17 and Scripture Reading from First John 4:7-19. This was the third in a series of three, A B, C.

Mrs. Lina Reynolds returned to Florida Monday after visiting relatives and friends in the area for three weeks.

Gretchen Wight returned home from the Maine Medical Center, Portland, where she had been a patient since Oct. 25.

Karlene Bachelder, Eleanor Morton, Betsy Clark, June Swan, Beatrice Lowell, Oliva Anderson, Louise Tetley and Gilberte Seeley were in Rumford bowling, Oct. 24.

Karen Green, Providence, R. I., and Teresa Toti, Harrisville, R. I., were weekend guests of Gilberte Seeley and attended the Snowmobile Club Halloween Party with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Tetley went to Gardiner, Mass., Monday to visit their daughter, Sandra Senecal and family for a few days.

The Ladies Circle will meet Nov. 5, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Sylvia Wight.

Mr. and Mrs. David Ferrente and Shane, Boothbay Harbor, were weekend guests of Mary Tripp.

The Ladies Circle will meet at the home of Sylvia Wight on Monday, Nov. 5, at 7:30.

The Windy Valleys Snowmobile Club had a Halloween Party at the Club House Saturday evening. Willard and Sylvia Wight won the prize for the best costume, dressed

A cloudy, drizzly day, but we need some rain to fill the wells before winter sets in, so guess we better be glad to see it. The trees are nearly bare now and when I listen to TV, I am glad I'm not where they are getting heavy snows this time of year. It will come soon enough, and though it is as beautiful in its own way as any other time of year, I dread the winters more and more. Must be because I'm feeling older or something. I used to be as anxious as anyone to see the first snow fall, but not now.

I made my usual trip to see my doctor in Harrison on Monday to have another treatment on my sinuses. One gets pleasure going to see him as they never know what he is going to say next. He says what he thinks and doesn't care whether it sounds good or not. He has helped my headaches so guess he knows a little about what he is doing. He told me he had been in practice for 58 years, so he should know something by now, and sure does.

Wynona and Michael brought Courtney to stay with Grandma this week while they were on vacation. She came on Sunday and they came to get her on Friday. Couldn't stay away any longer, I guess. I have had a good time with her and it is so much fun to watch little ones when at play. I gave her my Parsons table to use for a table and she brought a little chair that was just right for it. She had lots of fun making believe set the table and making things as I did. I shall miss her, now that she is not here, but with as an old farmer and his wife. Games were played and refreshments served.

her folks in Lewiston, I enjoyed the time I did have with her anyway.

Had to make another trip to Harrison to have my back treated on Tuesday, but that didn't take too long. Russell had peeled squash on Monday night and we cooked it and put it into containers to freeze on Tuesday. We have it all taken care of now and it is a good feeling. Lawrence and Grace got quite a few to freeze and hope they like it as well as we do.

Russell decided he better make a portico and whatever you want to call it, over the outside steps, so has been working on that this week and got it done finally. Have painted it as yet, but will when the weather clears.

Have done a little sewing on a dress for Wynona this week, but my eyes won't let me see to sew on dark material on dark days, so got to wait for the sun to shine, before I can finish it.

Took Courtney outside to play most every day as there is more room for her to run around here than in the city of Lewiston. She loves to get outside, and will swing as long as anyone will push her. She has one of those new plastic swings that you can hitch little ones into and they won't fall out, and enjoys every minute she is in it. It gave me more excuse to get out also and I enjoyed it too.

I decided to go do a little shopping on Thursday afternoon and took Cory with me. She was tired, but a good girl just the same. Friday morning we had to go do laundry and get groceries as usual. Had just finished lunch when the door opened and in walked Cory's mother and father. We knew they were coming some time that day, but didn't look for them quite so soon. Courtney was glad to see them and we got her all packed and they were on their way home. After having her for the most of the week, the house seems empty and quiet. As I told Russell, we had an obstacle course to follow through out the week, but didn't mind as we love to have Courtney around.

Guess Wynona and Michael had a good time in Vermont, but found things very expensive and as they were running out of money, decided to come home a day early. They brought me one of those little air ferns in a pretty shell and a little maple syrup to go on Russel's pancakes, when I make them.

Got to get busy and get something ready for Grange tonight and hope there are enough folks come to have a meeting. Last time, we had supper, waited and not enough showed up, so came home. Hope that doesn't happen tonight.

Forgot to say that we were pleasantly surprised one night to have the door open and my foster daughter, Helen Strout, of Oxford and a friend drop in to visit. Wish we had more visitors than we do.

We keep busy one way or another and if Russell keeps having new catalogs come, we can keep busy just looking at them. Don't know how they all got his name, but he has had catalogs come that we never heard of before. If the prices are too high, we look the books over and then file them with the junk mail, in the trash can. Can't think of a better place for them. One can't afford half of the items in some of the catalogs even though they are so lovely. The price is just as lovely and when one gets social security, they don't buy the high priced items. It can be fun to look and dream and wish you had lots of cash to throw away, but that's all it is, a dream.

Hunting season is on I guess, for birds anyway and we hear a rifle boom out in the woods once in a while. Sometimes it sounds

Senator Bill Cohen For Maine . . . For America.

A Solid Record of Accomplishment

During his six years in the Senate, Bill Cohen has compiled an enviable record of service to his state and the nation.

- Authored the nuclear "build-down" proposal, which has been co-sponsored by 45 Senators, endorsed by nuclear freeze proponents such as former Maine Senator Ed Muskie, and adopted by the Reagan Administration as this country's arms control negotiating position. He also visited the Soviet Union earlier this year for five days of talks on arms control issues with leading Soviet officials.
- Is the chairman of the Senate Footwear Caucus and has championed the cause of 17,000 shoeworkers in Maine whose jobs have been threatened by foreign imports.
- Wrote the law reforming the Social Security disability insurance program. Before passage of the Cohen bill, thousands of disabled persons had been unjustly removed from the disability rolls and denied benefits.
- Worked with Senator Ed Muskie and Governor Joe Brennan to resolve the Indian Land Claims dispute which threatened to impose economic chaos on the state of Maine.
- Authored the law which requires government agencies to use more competition in government contracting. An analysis by the Congressional Budget Office said that the Cohen bill will save the government $2 billion per year.

- Made good on his pledge to kill the environmentally destructive Dickey-Lincoln hydroelectric project in northern Maine.
- Worked to keep Loring Air Force Base, which was slated for closure, fully operational. As a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Cohen has been successful in advocating full funding and an expanded role for the base.
- Wrote the amendment which permitted Bath Iron Works to compete for the building of the CG-47 Guided Missile Cruiser, a contract which now means thousands of jobs to BIW.
- Is one of the strongest Congressional proponents of the Equal Rights Amendment and a host of other measures designed to give women a stronger voice and economic position in our society.
- Helped literally thousands of Maine people with individual problems through his six Maine offices, reflecting his strong commitment to constituent service.

Richard Felt was at West Minot where he and Dot Cariwell played for the 100th celebration of the Grange Thursday night.

Lettie Brooks and Olive Davis attended a housewarming party at Alice Hoyt's home Wednesday noon. Thursday evening Carl, Lettie and Olive were at West Paris Grange attending their harvest supper when they were entertaining Chapel Valley patients.

Lettie and Olive, and Lillian Curtis attended the retired teachers meeting at Norway Universal Church, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tucci took dinner with me Friday noon. It was a glorious day and we spent the afternoon on the porch in the warm sunshine.

Jeanne Vancouver of Shelburne, N.H., came to Maine. She picked up Richard Felt and Olive Davis and we attended Oxford Grange Hobo Night, Friday evening. Chester Hayes was reported as being at home and gaining now. His address is Star Route, Gorham, N.H.

The hunting season is upon us. Be careful and be sure what you are shooting at, hunters. If you see a deer with a bow on its neck, don't shoot. It is a tame deer and may walk up to you to be fed. It is no honor to you to shoot a tame deer, but a disgrace.

Olive Davis was at Bridgton Sunday visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews and sister, Lillian. They all took a trip to Mr. and Mrs. Chris Malasky's at Gorham to see their new trailer they have moved into.

The town dump is being closed and the citizens will have to go to Locke Mills with their waste from now on. They have to get a card at the town office to give them permission to dump their waste there. Woodstock has joined with the Greenwood unit.

NOTES FROM WOODSTOCK HISTORICAL SOCIETY

We recently found a book on the White House at the turn of the century. One of the most interesting things in it was a list of the menus. It is hard to believe such lavish meals were served even in the first establishment in the land. Here are some samples.

At a dinner in November, 1915, the following delicacies were offered: Brown bread and butter, striped bass with lobster sauce, braised sweetbreads with mushroom sauce, filets of beef with Bernaise sauce, broiled tomatoes, spinach, potato roses, squabs, celery salad, fruit ice cream, coffee, marmons, marshmallow caramels, peppermint paste, peppermints.

For a Cabinet Dinner on Dec. 15, 1910 the following was served: caviar in ice, clear soup with croutons, cheese straws, terrapin, chicken mousse with mushrooms, saddle of lamb, mint sauce, string beans, potatoes, pate de foies gras in aspic, pheasants, lettuce salad, orange jelly, pistachio and vanilla ice cream, cake, coffee, marmons, marshmallow caramels, peppermint paste, peppermints.

For a Diplomatic Dinner on Jan. 2, 1914, the following modest menu was forthcoming: caviar in ice, turtle soup, cheese straws, mousse of halibut, lobster sauce, artichokes with mushrooms, filet of beef, stuffed tomatoes, string beans, new potatoes, asparagus with hollandaise, smallard ducks, mixed salad, strawberry ice cream, cake and coffee. The wine menu only included the following: claret, hock, sherry, champagne, creme de menthe, and cognac.

Well, back to hamburger and hot dogs!

The S.A.D. 44 Adult and Community Education program recently re-opened the Bryant Pond branch of the Adult Learning Center, which allows adults who are interested in preparing for the GED test, or who wish to improve their skills in reading or math, to attend class at the Woodstock Elementary School. The class meets on Tuesday, from 6:30-9:30 with Andrea Hoyt as instructor. All work is individual so that students may work at their own level and own pace. To enroll call the Adult Education office, 824-2780. There is also a GED Preparation class at Telstar, which meets on Tuesday nights from 6:30-9:30, with Ann Holt as teacher. The first GED of the current year was recently completed at the Telstar site.

The Adult Education Conference was held in Portland on Oct. 19-20. Attending from S.A.D. 44 were Cathy Newell, Pat Morey, Ann Holt and Betsy Mixer. Highlight of the conference was the appearance of Wally Amos, national spokesman for Literacy Volunteers. The Conference was held at the Sheraton Inn, South Portland, with over 350 adult educators from across the state attending.

On Thursday for his semi-annual check up, his daughter, Cathryn, went to do the driving. They visited Albert Foster, of East Bethel, in Ward Two.

Mr. and Mrs. Alanson Lovejoy were in Lewiston on business last Thursday. Mrs. Pat Sweetser stayed with Shana and Angela.

Dorothy West had her mother, Cathy Lovejoy, accompany her to Portland, Friday night to meet the plane and get Ray, who had delivered a truck load of veal calves to New Jersey.

Sunday pm. Ellen and Rick Whitney joined the family for the big effort to finish the roofing of the Cleve Lovejoy home. Mr. and Alfred Lovejoy took time off to go see some family and friends in Norway and Auburn, before heading home to Traverse City, Mich.

Monday evening, the family met to say goodbye to Alfred and Stella and enjoy a special "thank you" cake, made by Dorothy West.

An Open Letter from REPRESENTATIVE JEFF MILLS
to the Voters of District 49

DEAR FRIENDS:

During the campaign season I have been going door-to-door throughout the District, and have had the opportunity to visit with many of you and listen to your concerns and ideas.

Your concerns—whether relating to highways, taxes, the environment, senior citizen issues, tourism or education—will form my agenda for representing you. Your ideas open avenues for issues upon which we could work together.

Your hospitality always reminds me of what a special area this is, and I want you to know that, if re-elected, I will work hard for you and for our area.

I will keep in touch through newsletters and surveys, and by attending town and community meetings.

I respectfully ask for your support and your vote on Election Day, Tuesday, November 6.

Sincerely,
JEFF MILLS

Down by the river, which at this time of year, flows undulating and pulsating, weaving itself forward like a silken grey ribbon, stands a huge oak tree. The wide space of its branches keeps a clear space around it, and outside its perfect circle, lie hundreds upon hundreds of acorns. Who knows for sure how many years it has stood there—perhaps even the length of time that this particular countryside saw migrant Indians passing the terrain and stopping for shade under its branches! When the North Road was cleared and built, this tree was spared—maybe because of a slight twist in its trunk, it was deemed no good for lumber—and left standing there. For more than a century it must have been looking down upon the river, rising and growing, until it could look across the river—because of its height, to open fields and farmlands, and pastures paced off by grey stone walls. Every three years it bears an enormous crop of acorns—and the area all around it has been planted with oaks, by its widely flung castings. Thus the old oak, kept on growing—not in height—but in girth and deep rootness! It has escaped lightning, resisted winter damage and withstood hurricanes. The power to grow has resided in the tree itself—and the forest creatures know it well.

And now as the clouds bedeck the summits of the mountains around us, and the sky looks ominous, the old oak stands there deep rooted, calm, overlooking the river—which runs to the sea, never failing to offer sanctuary.

Yes, there is a peace in country-living. Time, measured by seasons, has a way of equalizing events. A severe winter serves to eliminate pests. A dry summer forces systems to do deeper. Heavy winds tear dead wood out of trees—everything served a purpose.

pose. And so it is with our lives—like the old oak—we must accept what happens and use it to our advantage. This is indeed the countryman's point of view—as we cross the long, grey bridge towards—towards the winter, which can only serve as a stepping stone to greater deep rootedness and personal evaluation, a process of structuring and strengthening, within ourselves.

And T.S. Eliot's lines sing within us:

"We must be still and still moving Pass into another intensity."

T.T.A.E.R.S. News

(Tri-Town Ambulance & Emergency Rescue Service)

Tri-Town is looking for new members in all areas. The auxiliary could use people interested in phone calling, doing laundry and raising money for the service. The next auxiliary meeting is set for Nov. 5 at the West Paris bank.

The ambulance service is looking for in-service dispatchers. This would be a person who would be near their telephone for a 12 hour shift (6 a.m. to 6 p.m., or 6 p.m. to 6 a.m.) and listening to a scanner. When a call is received, the in-service dispatcher would arrange for one first responder and a back-up crew to handle a second call if necessary. The person would only talk to attendants, not the person needing the ambulance.

Tri-Town could also use active personnel to take care of patients. The service requires advanced first aid or EMT training with a state test. It is exciting to serve the communities and the people, providing needed service.

For more information on any part of the service, contact Chief Chris Hefley (665-2853) or Auxiliary President Mildred York (674-2324).

As time has just changed to Eastern Standard Time, more school children will be getting off late buses in the dark. Please have an extra eye open for children walking home in the dark. MARION A. KENDALL

Marion A. Kendall of Northeast Lovell died Saturday, Oct. 27, 1984, at a South Paris nursing home.

She was born in Stoneham, a daughter of Frank and Lucy Stearns McAllister. She attended Stoneham schools and had been a resident of Lovell for the past 76 years. Her husband, Albert K. Kendall, died in 1965.

She was a member of the United Church of Christ in Center Lovell, the Lovell Ladies Circle and the Lovell Senior Citizens.

She is survived by two daughters, Pauline Smith and Iva Fox, both of Northeast Lovell; 11 grandchildren, 21 great-grandchildren, & three great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the United Church of Christ, Center Lovell, with the Rev. Donald Morrison and the Rev. Willard Bicket officiating. Interment was at the Center Lovell Cemetery.

"AFTERNOON SOCIAL" WELL-ATTENDED

The "Afternoon Social," sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary #68, held Oct. 23 at the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills was well-attended. Starting at 12:30 p.m., homemade soft pies, and coffee were served.

The tables were attractively arranged in the ladies meeting room and a variety of games were played. Every half-hour a bell rang and two door prizes were awarded, for a total of 15. The prizes were mostly donated by the local businesses in Locke Mills, Bryant Pond and Bethel. They were Bob's Corner Store; Bethel Citizen; the IGA; Prin's Pharmacy; Edelweiss Store; Bryant Pond Village Store, and Frieden Dorf Pottery.

Mary Lyon planned the party and worked hard for its success. She was helped by President Kathy Bartlett, her children, Mark and Kelly, and Vera Cross, and Legionnaire Herb Lyon.

Those attending enjoyed this first social and hope for a repeat, real soon.

O.C.R.T. TO MEET NOV. 10

The Oxford County Retired Teachers will meet at the South Paris Congregational Church on Saturday, Nov. 10. Social hour is at 10:30, business meeting at 11:15. The program will be a necrology service and music by the Oxford Hills junior high music department.

ELEANOR GORDON GUILD

The Eleanor Gordon Guild met Tuesday night, Oct. 23, at the home of Cindy Blake with nine members present. Sally Dowling had devotions. The candy table for the Methodist Church was discussed. Everyone is to bring fudge and popcorn balls will be made at the next meeting to be held Thursday night, Nov. 8, at 7 o'clock, at the home of Cindy Blake.

A silent auction was held and delicious refreshments were served by the co-hostess, Jeannette St. Pierre.

B.O.C.'s 4th ANNUAL SKI SALE NOTES FROM THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCEFRIDAY-SATURDAY, NOV. 2-3

Maine and New Hampshire skiers are being afforded a rare opportunity this coming weekend as the Bethel Outing Club's 4th Annual Ski Equipment Sale gets underway. To date, 13 of Maine and New Hampshire's most prestigious shops have committed over 2,400 items of new and used alpine and cross country ski equipment, winter sports clothing and accessories, nearly doubling last year's commitment. This first of the season sale offers winter sports enthusiasts of all levels an opportunity to sell unwanted items in the consignment tag sale and to get outfitted for the coming season at drastically reduced prices.

The sale will be held 6:30 - 9:30 p.m., Friday, Nov. 2, and 10 a.m.-3 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 3, in the Gould Academy Field House.

The annual ski sale is held as a public service as the outing club's primary annual fund-raiser. The BOC promotes and supports junior nordic ski development programs, and family outings as well as other community service projects in the greater Bethel and western Maine region.

Volunteers are still needed to help with their worthwhile project. If you would like to join the fun call Don Angevine at 824-3343 or Ginger Kelly at 824-2714.

"DEALING WITH PEOPLE"
SEMINAR SCHEDULED FOR NOV. 9 & 10

The S.A.D. 44 Adult & Community Education program and NTIL Institute are co-sponsoring a weekend seminar entitled Dealing With People, on Nov. 9 and 10. Instructors for the seminar will be Charles and Edie Seashore of Washington, D.C., and Bethel. The seminar will be held on Friday evening starting at 6 and during the day on Saturday and is open to anyone who has not previously taken a similar group-process class. There will be a reunion for individuals who took the Dealing with People Seminar last spring on Sunday from 4-7:30. Both the seminar and the reunion will be held at the Seashore's residence, Bingham House, on Broad Street in Bethel.

The seminar has been designed to allow local residents to become more familiar with the type of experience that people have traveled from all parts of the world to Bethel to undertake. It consists of discussion and exercises to help participants better understand how groups function and how they, as individuals function in a group.

Edie and Charlie Seashore, with their many years of NTIL-Bethel experience, have a strong sense of NTIL and Bethel's shared history and will share some of this with the class.

Local residents who participated in the Dealing With People seminar last spring were very positive about the experience, describing it as very enjoyable, a chance to get to know other people from this area. They felt that the seminar made them much better acquainted with NTIL, and many attended the Sunrise Seminars during this past summer at NTIL.

For further information, or to enroll in the Seminar or the Reunion, call the S.A.D. 44 Adult and Community Ed. Office, 824-2780.

Another factor may have been the NYA style of play. "They were bigger and very physical," he said. "They're a hockey school. It's their style of play."

Whatever the reason, NYA took charge of the game in the second half," the coach recounted. The Rebels had felt good at half-time, on the basis of a Shawn Smith score. But midway through the second half the visitors returned the favor.

Coach Remington blamed the goal as much on the referee as on the opposing offensive and defensive units. His consternation concerned the referee's insistence that the coach come onto the field to look after goalie Ken Viger, who went down in pain following a collision.

Helping to run the election were Republican campaign managers Brent Lizotte and Leigh Whitman, and Democratic campaign manager Rachel Belanger and Mike McGuire. The following students assisted in counting the ballots: Eric Wight, Denise Eliot, Jane Head, Susan Cole, Shari Cole, Judy Hutchinson, Lisa Thurlow and Penny York.

NO CHANCE: Telstar's Mike Fenton held on to deprive the Rebels of the score, and North Yarmouth held on to their overtime lead to win the game, 2-1, finishing Telstar's championship hopes for the season. Shawn Smith, who had Telstar's lone score in the first half, looks on in frustration at the thwarted score.

One fullback and one sub will also be returning. But, in most positions it will be a building year. Still, Remington thinks he can build rapidly. "Among the 8th graders there's a lot of talent. I expect we'll probably start next season a little shaky, but by the end of the season we'll be a tough team again."

The 1984 version of the Rebels were certainly tough, finishing at 11-5-1 overall.
